A number of people believe that pocket money teaches teenagers to be responsible with money. Others say that teenagers are too young to deal with money and that their parents should just buy them what they need.

Do you think that being given pocket money teaches teenagers anything?

Сочинение:

The problem of pocket money has always been very important for youngsters. Some people think that teenagers become more responsible and sensible getting pocket money. Others think that young people cannot deal with money and believe they waste it on useless things.

In my opinion, pocket money helps teenagers to learn how to plan their budget. There are a lot of things they want to spend their money on, but the amount of money is limited. Moreover, teenagers get information about the cost of living. It helps them to realize what job to choose in future to earn enough money for everything they want to get.

On the other hand, many people say that teenagers waste pocket money. They claim that youngsters spend hours in shopping malls buying numerous useless things, such as another trendy outfit. Moreover, some people argue that teenagers have no idea of how difficult money is earned.

I do not agree with the above statements. Firstly, teenagers don't waste money on clothes because looking smart and fashionable is very important today. Also, they pay for mobile phones and the internet. Secondly, many teenagers know that earning money is not easy because they have part time jobs and realize that to make good money it is essential to be hardworking, reliable and intelligent.

All things considered, there are two points of view on the problem of pocket money. I believe that parents should give teenagers pocket money because sensible spending of it teaches them a lot of.
